Postal service dispute could result in strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Letter carriers are threatening a nationwide strike in March if the U.S. Postal Service implements a new delivery system designed to increase efficiency but which union leaders say will eliminate 15,000 jobs.

Sharonville man named new Great Oaks superintendent

A Sharonville man Wednesday night was named superintendent of the Great Oaks Joint Vocational School District by the Great Oaks Board of Education.

Harold L. Carr, of Sharonville, who has served as the district's assistant superintendent for the past two years, was named to succeed Eugene W. Kavanagh, who will retire from the position effective Aug. 31.

KAVANAGH HAD been the only superintendent of the extensive and

The National Association of Letter Carriers has sent letters to all locals urging its nearly 200,000 members to prepare for "the possibility of a national job action as a result of implementation of computerized route adjustments contrary to the best interest and welfare of our membership."

The union says the new system would turn its men into "robots" and slow the mail by overburdening mail carriers.

Postal officials charge the union is formulating "a nationally organized plan to soften the public and the press for a possible illegal strike against the government."

A strike, if it comes, would be the first against the postal system since the historic walkout of March 1970 when federal troops were called in to help deliver the mails. The walkout helped lead to the reorganization of the Post Office Department as an independent semi-government agency.

Strikes are prohibited against the government, but President James H. Rademacher of the letter carriers says, "We are willing to risk the consequences."

"I'm hoping they (Postal Service officials) will back off and listen to reason," Rademacher said in an interview. "But I've got a mandate and no choice but to strike."

Letter carriers at their Seattle convention last August voted overwhelmingly to strike the Postal Service if new work standards now being tested at Kokomo, Ind., are put into effect.

Postal officials say the Kokomo plan, officially known as the Letter Carrier Route Evaluation System, was developed to measure individual carriers' performance so that more efficient routes can be established.

However, before the pilot program can be implemented nationwide, postal officials agreed to discuss the Kokomo results with union officials after March 1.

But Rademacher says the Postal Service appears ready to go ahead with the Kokomo plan regardless of the results. He contends that 15,000 jobs will be eliminated with the same volume of mail to be handled by fewer people.

James C. Gildea, assistant postmaster general for labor relations, said in a separate interview that the union is drawing conclusions to questions that haven't been answered yet. "I don't see how Rademacher can say jobs are going to be eliminated," Gildea said. "We may be adding carriers around the country."

WCH man held in incident

Stick-wielding patron foils robbery attempt

A robbery attempt early Thursday at a downtown tavern was foiled by a patron wielding a pool stick, Washington C.H. police reported.

Stanley (Thomas) Cecil Cartwright, 50, who according to police has no present address, is presently incarcerated in city jail in connection with the incident at Weegie's Town Tavern, 224 E. Court St.

Washington C.H. Police Patrolman Larry Mongold arrested Cartwright at 1:36 a.m. Thursday, after he allegedly attempted to rob Weegie's Town Tavern, at knifepoint, but was foiled in his attempt when a patron broke a pool stick over Cartwright's head. Reports said he was wearing a wig as a disguise.

When Plt. Mongold was flagged down in front of the tavern, the action was over and he found Cartwright unconscious near the cash register. Cartwright had removed nine 10-dollar bills, but they were replaced and he was charged with aggravated robbery and his bond set at $10,000.

Brown may step aside in GOP's legal battle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William J. Brown says he'll be happy to discuss with GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes the possibility of someone other than Brown representing Rhodes in an upcoming court battle.

Brown, a Democrat, told the newly elected governor in a letter Wednesday he would meet at Rhodes' "earliest convenience" in connection with GOP challenges of six bills majority Democrats sped through last week before Rhodes was inaugurated.

John M. McElroy, Rhodes' chief aide, said his boss asked Brown not only to appoint special counsel, but also to let the governor make the nomination — in effect, to pick his own lawyer.

The attorney general normally acts as counsel in matters of litigation involving other state officials.

However, Brown has been acting on behalf of Democratic legislative leaders seeking to defend the validity of the controversial bills. Rhodes told Brown in his request that the two of them have interests in the case which are "adverse."

Rhodes said he also had been formally notified that he is a defendant in the declaratory judgment action filed Monday in Franklin County Common Pleas Court by Senate Minority Leader Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati.

Maloney's suit seeks to enjoin the governor and other state and local officials from implementing the bills on grounds they were enacted unconsciously.

Among other things, it cites the lack of the signature of the lieutenant governor. Former Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, a Republican, refused to sign, but former Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan affixed his signature anyway.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, a Republican, refused to accept the bills for filing when they were delivered by Gilligan representatives after Rhodes had been sworn in. Instead, he sent them to Rhodes who placed them in McElroy's custody.

DP&L granted 13.5 pct. hike

An emergency increase in Dayton Power and Light Co. electric rates of 13.5 per cent, or an average of $2.75 per month (about nine cents per day) for the average residential customer, has been approved by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

Robert B. Killen, DP&L chairman, said, "The company's current electric rates are based on 1971 costs. Since then, inflation has caused unbelievable increases in the cost of construction, financing and coal. Revenues have not been adequate to meet these costs and attract investors whose money is required to help build adequate generation, transmission and distribution facilities to avert future shortages of electric energy."

Without the money to finance these facilities which take years to build, DP&L projects a freeze on all new electric connections and additional usage starting in three to four years, the company stated. Such a shortage, similar to the natural gas curtailments, would cause more unemployment and significant worsening of the economy in DP&L's service area.

For non-domestic users

DP&L statement rapidly becoming common knowledge

By SANDY FOSSON

"It is essential that you take immediate steps to comply with this reduced allotment. Our only recourse, if this is not done, will be to discontinue gas service."

This statement has become common knowledge to the commercial and industrial customers of the Dayton Power and Light Co. DP&L is now averaging 600 contacts a day to non-domestic customers who have gone over their allocated supplies of natural gas due to the increasing shortage.

Almost two-thirds of all commercial and industrial customers under DP&L have been notified at least once they were over their prescribed natural gas allotments, which have been reduced to 29 per cent of their 1972 consumption since Dec. 25. Included in this category are the 25 industrial, 413 commercial and 33 governmental customers in Washington C.H.

DP&L WAS recently granted the authority to assess penalty costs by the PUCO for gas used over allotments, which includes a gradual penalty of up to one dollar per 100 cubic feet (ccf) over allocation. All penalty costs are to be paid directly to the supplier of the DP&L, Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. of Charleston, W.Va.

If not enough, the Dayton Power and Light Co. was granted an additional, emergency 13.5 per cent rate hike in electrical bills Thursday by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio due to rising inflationary operating and coal cost.

Jerry Morgan, public relations director for DP&L, has become an extremely important man these days — it is his job to travel to the various regions under DP&L jurisdiction and explain to customers — commercial, industrial and residential — why their gas and electric bills are jumping so high.

To make a long story short, Morgan tells customers the Dayton Power and Light Co. receives its supplies of natural gas from the pipelines of the Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. Due to the low price of natural gas at the well-head, regulated by the federal government, no new explorations for natural gas have been made.

With the natural gas reserves of the Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. decreasing from 289 trillion cubic feet to less than 218 trillion cubic feet and no new explorations for gas, the supplies have dwindled, causing increased prices and allocated supplies to customers.

In order to give residential and domestic customers where human welfare is involved the most gas consumption, the industrial and commercial users have been forced to shoulder the burdens of the curtailment.

The Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. has added a "fuel adjustment rate" for both natural gas and electric customers of DP&L. Morgan said his fuel adjustment takes up one-third of the natural gas bill to customers and goes directly to the supplier rather than DP&L.

Because of the natural gas pinch, expected to linger anywhere from five to 10 years, many industrial customers and commercial users have gone to electric heating, utilizing shorter work hours or employment, or as a last resort to many, completely shutting down operations.

The sale of portable heaters has doubled since publicity has mounted over the urgency of curtailing natural gas usage. Morgan said DP&L now has an adequate supply of electricity for the winter season but if many customers should decide to switch to electrical heating at the same time, an electrical shortage would also be imminent.

Electrical bills for DP&L customers have increased 30-40 per cent this winter, Morgan said, due to the colder weather and the high cost of coal needed to generate electricity.

The cost of coal has increased 400 per cent within the last year and a half from $8 a ton to over $32 per ton," he said. "It takes approximately one pound of coal to generate one kilowatt of electricity so with the cost going up so rapidly for coal, an increase in electric bills was necessary."

Morgan said the DP&L supplier has set a penny per kilowatt of electricity as the fuel adjustment costs for electric customers, which also goes directly to Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. The average customer buys 250 kilowatts of electricity per month.

The Dayton Power and Light Co. has also been effected by the gas shortage and the mandated adjustment costs in natural gas and electric bills ordered by the Columbia Gas Transmission Corp.

"We had been expecting only a nine per cent cut in gas allocations for this winter," Morgan said. "We purchased synthetic gas to make up three per cent of the cut and increased our propane facilities but then, almost suddenly, our supplier told us we had to reduce our consumption to 29 per cent of the 1972 usage.

"It didn't give businesses enough time to prepare for it and now, we are asking Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. to answer questions concerning the large curtailment," he added.

DP&L has not been able to earn enough revenues to expand its facilities, Morgan said. Although DP&L reduced rates three times in the 1960's, it had not been able to increase rates until November, 1973 with a 14 per cent hike. That increase had been pending under two years consideration by the PUCO before it was granted. The additional, emergency 13.5 per cent increase just approved Thursday, was requested by DP&L in May of 1974 to defray increasing expenses.

Morgan said the increase was because the company "is still growing and we foresee that if we do not get adequate revenues to expand our program, in four to five years there will also be a shortage of electricity; we are trying to get the same thing happen with electricity as it did with natural gas."

MORGAN ADDED, "Our stock has dropped on the stock market from $25 per share in 1973 to $13 a share presently. We haven't been able to raise enough investments on stock needed to pay for expansion. It requires at least 10 years to plan and build a power plant."

During the freeze on natural gas and electrical customers in 1972, DP&L eliminated 95 jobs. In June of 1972, DP&L was employing 3,370 people; that figure diminished to 3,184 employees in June of 1974. Morgan said only 50 employees were laid off while the others were discharged through early retirements and attrition.

The suppliers are continuing to steep prices on natural gas and electricity until legislation is passed to decontrol the well-head price of natural gas. With higher well-head prices, additional natural gas reserves can be sought and the supplies will again become stabilized—ten years from now.

Emergency jobless bill clears hurdle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jobless Ohioans who have exhausted their regular 26 weeks of unemployment benefits could get 26 more under an emergency bill now past its first hurdle in the General Assembly.

The Senate Commerce and Labor Committee recommended passage 7-0 Wednesday of the bill which, if enacted by Jan. 26, will provide an initial extension of 13 weeks.

Beman Pound, director of the Unemployment Compensation Division, said extension would trigger an additional 13 weeks of emergency benefits paid for fully with federal funds for those who continue unemployed, giving them a year's benefits in all.

Committee Chairman Donald L. Woodland, D-16 Columbus, said the measure has bipartisan support, and that he expects the Senate to pass it and send it to the House no later than next Tuesday.

Both chambers held routine floor sessions Wednesday. The Senate adjourned until 7:30 p.m. Monday, while the House will quit for the weekend today after a brief skeleton session. It retires at 11 a.m., Tuesday.

In other developments, Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, D-89 Bournville, of the House Finance Committee said hearings will begin Tuesday on an emergency bill to appropriate a highly publicized, $91.3 million state budget surplus for Ohio's strike and money-troubled school districts.

Senate Finance Chairman Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, said simultaneous hearings on an identical measure will get under way in the upper chamber.

Majority Democrats said they hope, with the cooperation of GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes, to give all school district a $40-per-pupil shot in the arm in March—at least three months ahead of the 1975-1977 budget bill. The state's fiscal biennium ends June 30.

As part of his campaign platform, Rhodes pledged to work with the legislature in earmarking the surplus funds for elementary and secondary education.

The unemployment compensation bill apparently will become the first enactment of the Democrat-controlled legislature to win support of the other party.

Actually, the jobless pay extender was part of one of six bills signed by Democratic former Gov. John J. Gilligan before he left office Monday. However, it is under court attack along with the other measures which Republicans contend were "steam rolled" through the legislature in violation of constitutional procedures.

Woodland said the pending bill would prevail, regardless of the fate of the earlier legislation. Republicans opposed the earlier

MACON, Ga. (AP) — The taped diary of slain Florida paroled Paul John Knowles has implicated him in seven more slayings, bringing to 14 the number of killings with which he has been charged or linked.

Authorities said Wednesday the latest cases connected to Knowles through a secret diary held by a federal grand jury were in Georgia, Connecticut, Florida and California. The victims were identified as:

—Kathy Sue Woods Pierce, 24, of Musella, Ga.

'Long-haired girl' dies

DETROIT (AP) — Jackie Walls, who gained fame in the 1920s as "the girl with the longest hair in the United States," died virtually penniless.

At its maximum length, Miss Walls' hair reached 7 feet, 4 inches. She toured the nation to exhibit her gold-and-copper tresses in parades and fairs.

"Jackie was the most beautiful woman in the world when she was young," said a neighbor, Katherine Nassar. "God gave her that beautiful hair."

Miss Walls and her mother used the tresses to help sell hair tonic, which they claimed was an aid to growth. The hair, usually worn braided or coiled on top of Miss Walls' head, finally was cut in 1931 when it became tangled and a hair expert was unable to unsnarl it.

Services for Miss Walls, who died Dec. 22 at 78, are scheduled today by the Salvation Army. Rites were delayed until a search for relatives could be completed.

U.S. District Court Judge Wilbur D. Owens ruled that the taped diary would remain in custody of the federal grand jury until it concludes its investigation, although authorities could be given transcripts of portions of the tapes.

Macon lawyer Charles Marchman Jr., one of three Knowles' attorneys, charged Wednesday night that authorities who have released information contained in the transcripts violated Owens' order. He said he would petition the court Thursday, asking that the authorities be cited with contempt of court. Marchman also said he would ask the court to return the tapes to the Knowles estate because of the revelations.

See some changes in Ford proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic congressional leaders told President Ford today they expect action within 90 days on key segments of his economic program, but voiced misgivings about his proposals for energy taxes and across-the-board tax rebates.

Senate Democratic whip Robert Byrd told reporters after Ford's White House breakfast with bipartisan congressional leaders that he thinks Congress may very well vote gasoline rationing instead of the conservation plan sought by the Republican President.

Ford formally presented his proposals to the Congress Wednesday, and House Democrats said afterwards they hoped to pass a tax cut within two months.

Both chambers held routine floor sessions Wednesday. The Senate adjourned until 7:30 p.m. Monday, while the House will quit for the weekend today after a brief skeleton session. It retires at 11 a.m., Tuesday.

Byrd said Democratic leaders pledged at today's breakfast to move quickly but told Ford "as a matter of course there would be some changes" in his proposals.

Specifically, Byrd said concern was expressed about granting a tax rebate across the board rather than concentrating in lower and middle income levels.

He also said there is a growing consensus among Democrats that Ford's proposed $2-a-barrel tax on domestic and foreign crude oil would "lend additional fuel to the fires of inflation."

"I indicated my viewpoint that we ought to move to gasoline rationing," Byrd said. When asked whether Congress would pass a gasoline rationing plan, he responded, "I think it may very well do that."

Later, however, in response to questions, he declined to flatly predict passage of a mandatory rationing plan.

Ford asked for standby rationing authority.

Several Democrats said the measures outlined by Ford in a somber State of the Union speech Wednesday will fail to revitalize the slumping economy and will increase inflationary pressures by driving up the price of fuel.

For the most part, Republican lawmakers said Ford had faced up to the nation's problems and that it is now up to the heavily Democratic Congress to act. The views of House leaders were considered particularly significant because the Constitution requires all revenue legislation to originate there.

Most of Ford's proposals had been disclosed earlier in his nationally and broadcast speech

Colby denied Wednesday published reports that the CIA "conducted a massive illegal domestic intelligence operation." He is scheduled to testify today before the Armed Services panel.

However, in a lengthy statement, he outlined agency spy operations directed against antiwar radicals and other dissidents in the United States. Colby also acknowledged that the CIA had established files on some 10,000 American citizens.

Colby's statement, released after a closed-door appearance before senior members of the Senate Appropriations Committee, also revealed the existence of other CIA domestic activities involving wiretapping, surveillance and opening the mail of American citizens.

Chairman John L. McClellan called the domestic activities "more or less incidental" but said an in-depth investigation was needed.

Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., introduced legislation to appoint a special prosecutor to investigate the intelligence community and "to bring those who violated the law to justice."

In his 45-page statement, Colby described two CIA programs in which agents infiltrated American dissident groups.

During the Nixon administration, Colby said the CIA "recruited or inserted about a dozen individuals into American dissident circles" as part of an effort to uncover any foreign involvement in domestic

Campaigning ad infinitum

Marquis Childs recently lamented the inordinate length of presidential campaigns, which he called "one of the direst aspects of the American political system." In a plaintive vein he asked, "Why not a moratorium on presidential politics? For a year? For six months?" Having asked the question he answered, "That is an impossible dream."

Probably this veteran political observer is right. The complainant makes it inevitably heard at about this time prior to the quadrennial electoral circus. Few relish the prospect of a year and a half to two years of jockeying for position among aspirants for nomination of the party out of power. But no relief is in sight - not, anyway, for this time around. The process has begun, and there is no stopping it.

There is some question whether it ought to be stopped, even supposing there were some practicable way of achieving this. Though Childs' idea of a "moratorium on presidential politics" until at least the halfway point of the year preceding an election year sounds attractive, would this necessarily serve the best interests of the electorate? Quite possibly not.

The long exposure of presidential aspirants has one desirable effect: it gives the public some chance to assess their quality - to become familiar with their background and competence and outlook. This is important enough to make up for some of the tedium of many months of presidential politicking.

So maybe it would be wise to let such politicking go on, concentrating instead on sensible limitation of campaigning in the period following national conventions. That campaigning on far too long - months, in contrast with the three weeks customary in Britain. By the time the conventions are ended, the candidates are well known and have already had much opportunity to put forward their views. A few weeks of making speeches across the nation should suffice.

Discrimination in reverse

Although the Civil Rights Act of 1964 expressly forbade reverse discrimination - that is giving a bonus to people who are black, female or members of some minority group - for years the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has been enforcing precisely this procedure upon colleges and universities under the euphonious rubric of affirmative action. College and university administrators are not by nature tigers, and the threat to withhold Federal funds has in many cases, I suspect, led them to be more Catholic than the Pope. So there has been a great rush to appoint Affirmative Action Coordinators and a desperate search for scholars from minority backgrounds and women (who constitute, ironically, the majority of the population) to fill available slots.

Indeed, to one like myself who spent his time 25 years ago getting newspapers to eliminate racial designations from their "Help Wanted" sections ("Wanted: white woman for position as clerk"), there has been something slightly sickening about the way institutions of higher education have blatantly announced in connection with jobs, "Preference given to women and minority candidates." As the signs in Boston used to read, "No Irish Need Apply", and the Jews, who have been hard hit by this because of their strong cultural emphasis on education, have about reached the conclusion that in the eyes of HEW the merit system is a Jewish conspiracy.

To take an example from my own knowledge, a university invited a woman graduate student for an interview. When she attended a departmental lunch she noticed a great sigh of relief. Later in conversation with the chairman she asked what the job specifications were, what she was expected to teach. He smiled and said, "As far as we are concerned, you can teach the politics of astrology - what we want is a woman." He was a poor judge of character: She got up, told him in earthy terms precisely what to do with the job, and hitchhiked back to Boston.

Ever since this nonsense got loose in the land, a number of us - led by the indomitable Professor Sidney Hook - have been on the warpath. We have gathered a catalog of horror stories that make the one described above seem like child's play. That basic fact of life here is that you cannot discriminate in favor of, say, women without discriminating against men. Moreover, while women constitute a national majority, there is an inadequate pool of qualified females or minority members to draw from in most fields. To give the ball another "push, the best" and brightest women, blacks, Chicanos are snapped up by the top universities. Thus the pool available to other schools with HEW breathing down their backs has already been skimmed of its top talent.

Discrimination must be a key aspect of academic life: I have spent a quarter of century discriminating between bright and dumb students and, more time than I like to recall, sitting on committees discriminating between talented and untalented faculty - both for hiring and tenure purposes. The only principles that should apply are those of the academy: One tries to choose the best person available. Not because he or she is black, yellow, red or polka dot, but because he or she is the most competent in the judgment of his or her peers. The former consideration are as irrelevant as the candidate's politics, religion or personal charm. (I have voted tenure to individuals I cordially disliked and voted against friends.)

For quite a while the opponents of reverse discrimination felt like voices crying in the wilderness. The Department of HEW seemed above the law, and its affirmative action enforcers, power-drunk, went wandering around the nation threatening administrations that did not present the proper demographic profile. Then suddenly a distinguished Congressman, James O'Hara (D., Mich.), took a hand in the game and held hearings of his Special Education subcommittee of the House Committee on Education and Labor. Sidney Hook and his colleagues there presented a devastating indictment of HEW, one which left the bureaucracy semi-comatose.

Now somehow the word seems to have gotten around. HEW has just issued a new directive stating that universities and colleges may not discriminate against white males, lower standards to attract women and minorities, advertise specially for women or minorities, or establish minority "slots." Congratulations to Representative O'Hara for getting HEW to read the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
Aflood of facts
from fish fanciers

DEAR ABBY: "Sorry for fish" asked if fish felt pain. She said she goes fishing with a friend who fillets the fish right after it's caught, and she can't bear to watch because it's still alive and wiggling.

You told her that since fish have nervous systems, they must have feelings, and suggested that she tell her impatient friend to wait until the fish dies before he fillets it.

Abby, you certainly don't know much about fish. What's so humane about letting fish die gasping for breath out of water? An expert fisherman first cracks the fish on its head to stun it, then quickly cuts off the head with a sharp knife.

Dead fish decompose very quickly. (About 200 times faster than pork or beef.) The sooner after a fish is caught it is prepared for eating, the better it will taste.

FISHWIFE

DEAR FISHWIFE: Since my piscatorial expertise is limited to suckers, that one fish letter prompted a flood of letters. Here's another:

DEAR ABBY: If fish feel pain, there must be a lot of suffering fish in Japan where we have made our home for the last four years.

The Japanese take great pride in serving whole fish with their bellies sliced in strips while the fish is still breathing! (This is called "sashimi.") The diners exclaim with delight, "Oh, look how fresh the fish is!"

Another Japanese delicacy is live trout, skewered and placed over burning coals. And this is done right before your eyes, Abby.

To tell "Sorry for fish" if she ever visits a fine Japanese restaurant, she had better bring her handkerchief.

ALSO SORRY FOR FISH

DEAR ABBY: The proper procedure for preparing freshly caught fish is as follows: First, rap the fish smartly on the head. This will kill it humanely and immediately. Then clean the fish at once, and either eat it or freeze it as soon as possible.

Some of my friends think I know what I am talking about because I am not only the president of the Rainbow chapter of Trout Unlimited in Anchorage, Alaska, but I was recently elected to the House of Representatives.

MIKE HERSHBERGER

DEAR MIKE: Your presidency of "Trout Unlimited" suggests that you know how to fish. Your election to the House suggests that you know the right bait, too. Congrats!

DEAR ABBY: Do fish feel pain? Only a fish knows for sure. But when it comes to preparing freshly caught fish, any fisherman worth his salt knows that fish should be killed as soon as it's caught. Then it should be either put under refrigeration or eaten. The flesh of fish starts to deteriorate the minute the fish is dead, and in a matter of hours it's not fit to eat. That's why fishermen put their catch on a stringer and back into the water until they are finished fishing.

With ice fishing it's different. The fish is tossed into a bucket of water to freeze quickly. However, when you take them home to clean, if you put them in lukewarm water to thaw before cleaning them, they will "come back to life" and start swimming around again. This used to fascinate our children.

'The Great Merchants' report made at Progress Club meet

Mrs. John Sheeley opened the meeting of the Progress Club with the poem, "A Way to a Happy Year," when members met in the home of Mrs. Clarence Knecht. Fourteen members answered roll call by naming "A Store I Remember." It was enlightening when ladies reminisced about the old, dry goods, general stores, harness shop, bakeries and bookstores.

Mrs. Robert Owens presented the review of the book, "The Great Merchants," by Tom Mahoney and Leonard Sloane. Mahoney, a former writer for "Fortune" has written a half dozen books on business subjects. Sloane was formerly a reporter on "The Wall Street Journal" and is now covering retailing for the "New York Times."

American leads the world in retailing, according to Mahoney and Sloane, but every nation can boast at least a few notable stores. The first retail selling in most of America was done by peddlers. A peddler's life was strenuous, lonely and hazardous.

Despite all obstacles, house to house selling still endures. Three of the largest being Avon cosmetics, Fuller Brush and Stanley Home products.

Montgomery Ward was the first to make a big thing of the catalogue idea during the latter half of the 19th century. A lowering of postal rates and expansion of postal service made this possible.

Mrs. Owens told of the beginning and growth of such stores as Macy's, Lazarus, Marshall Field, Woolworth, Sears, Lane Bryant, J.C. Penney, Singer and Hudson's.

During the social hour, Mrs. Knecht served a fruit salad and nut bread sandwiches.

Mrs. Powell entertains Dof 1812

The Major Samuel Myers Chapter, Daughters of 1812, met at the home of Mrs. R. Deane Powell Monday afternoon. Mrs. Walter Parrett, president, assisted by Mrs. Henry D. Engle, chaplain, opened the meeting in ritualistic form. Mrs. Harold Slagle read the minutes of the last meeting, and Mrs. Byron Hinton gave the financial report and read a "Thank You" note from Alice Lloyd College.

Chosen to serve on the nominating committee with Mrs. Millard Weidinger, chairman, were Mrs. Willard Bitzer and Mrs. Slagle. The Society will be represented at the National Council in Washington D.C. by Mrs. Walter Parrett and Mrs. Harold Haworth with Mrs. Bitzer and Mrs. Powell as the alternates. Those selected for the State Council are Mrs. Parrett, Mrs. Worley A. Melvin, Mrs. Paul D. Fairley, Mrs. Thomas J. Hancock and Mrs. Bitzer. Alternates are Mrs. Haworth, Mrs. Heber Deer, Mrs. Powell and Mrs. Slagle. The State Council will be held at Shawnee State Park March 24 and 26. All members are urged to attend.

Mrs. Robert Pero reviewed the book "O Promised Land" by James Street. This is the story of the conquest and settlement of that part of the United States which now comprises the states of Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi - a region they at various times was claimed by Spain, France, the United States and always by some six or seven Indian tribes. The story roughly covers the period from 1794 to 1817. It was a land that appealed to all classes of people, scouts, farmers, slave traders, trappers, hunters, etc. It was the 'Promised Land' for each group.

For Sam Dabney it was a land of many opportunities. He was a scout who led people west to the Mississippi country; he built a Conestoga wagon train; he had barges on the Mississippi; he built a cotton gin; (It is true that Eli Whitney had invented the cotton gin, but Whitney had not yet patented his invention); he had cotton plantations; he was a slave trader, dealing in imported slaves; when imported slaves were barred from some localities, he conceived the idea of a slave farm. He moves from one enterprise to another, for him this was the 'Promised Land.'

A report on the district meeting in Reynoldsburg was made. Those at-

World's most talkative people can be found in United States

The most talkative people in the world—at least on the telephone—are found in the United States.

Americans set a new record in 1973 by making 188 billion telephone calls. The U.S. total is more than four times larger than its nearest competitor for the year—Japan—whose people made 44 billion phone calls.

A record total gain of 23.4 million telephones, or 7.5 per cent, was achieved throughout the world during 1973. The increase brought the global total, as of January 1, 1974, to 336,297,000 telephones—a 9.6 per cent increase in 10 years.

These facts are from "The World's Telephones," a booklet published annually by AT&T's long lines department, which contains telephone facts from some 1,400 principal cities in 171 countries.

STATISTICS in the booklet have taken a year to compile from data provided by telecommunications administrations throughout the world.

Nationalist China achieved the largest individual growth rate in total telephones in 1973 with a 24.4 per cent increase, while the Republic of South Korea led the world in telephone growth during the last decade with a rate of 493.3 per cent.

The United States has the most telephones in the world with 138.3 million, or 65.47 telephones per 100 people. The worldwide ratio is 8.6 per 100 people.

Four U.S. cities have more telephones than people. Washington, D.C. heads the list with 13.3 telephones for every 100 people, followed by Southfield, Michigan with 126.2; Champaign, Illinois with 103.1; and Palo Alto, California with 102.2.

Stockholm, Sweden is the only foreign city in this category, with 104.8 telephones for every 100 people.

With the addition of Iran and Venezuela, the list of countries with more than half-a-million telephones has reached 41.

While the United States leads the way in total telephones, there are seven other nations with more than 10 million telephones. They are Japan with 38.6 million; United Kingdom with 19 million; Federal Republic of Germany with 17.8 million; U.S.R. with 14.2 million; Italy with 12.6 million; Canada with 11.6 million; and France with 11.3 million.

Bell System telephones connect with more than 99.5 per cent of the world's telephones, up from 98 per cent in 1972.

Even far away places like the Wallis and Futuna Islands—French possessions in Antarctica—can be reached by the American telephone calling public, along with any of the 246 other nations and areas of the globe.

Snow sifted into scattered areas from the central Rockies to New England today, but amounts generally were light and the nation was free of any major storms.

Up to 2 inches of snow whitened parts of Wyoming and northern Illinois. One-inch snowfalls were common in Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Rain sprinkled the Pacific Northwest, and fog formed over the central valleys of California before daybreak.

Clear skies were the rule in most other sections of the country.

In the West, the bodies of two cross country skiers who died in avalanches in the Colorado Rockies were recovered on Wednesday. A search was in progress for a third skier believed buried in a snow slide in the Monarch Ski Area of Chaffee County. Temperatures moderated further after an arctic outbreak that began with last weekend's Midwestern blizzard. Subzero cold persisted in the northern Rockies and Plains, but a gradual warming continued from the Midwest to the Deep South.

First Federal ends another record year

Assets of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association stood at $22,069,334.80 at the end of 1974. This was a 14.5 per cent increase over a year ago, it was reported by Harold H. Thompson, executive vice president and secretary, at the annual membership meeting Wednesday.

In his report to association members, Thompson said that 1974 was the greatest growth year ever experienced, exceeding 1973 over $560,000. The record growth was accomplished despite the many economic problems which developed during the past 12 months. Heavy competition generated by high rate government issues took their toll of available mortgage money late in the third quarter, but a surge in savings deposits during the last quarter enable the association to meet all loan commitments by the end of the year, Thompson said.

During the past year First Federal Savings and Loan Association paid $1,036,378 in interest to its savings depositors, an increase of $192,225.99 over 1973. This increase was due largely to the association paying the highest rates in the history of the institution and also to the growth of savings deposits during 1974. Despite the increased cost of savings the Association was able to increase its reserves to $1,978,807, which far exceeds the statutory requirements.

During 1974, First Federal Savings and Loan Association originated 343 mortgage loans amounting to $7,075,100.00 to buy, build and improve homes, apartments and commercial properties, in and around Washington C.H. and Fayette County. After loan repayments and payoffs a net increase of $2,955,995.16 was reported. Total mortgage loans on the books amount to $19,714,199.84. The increase in loans was also a record high for the association.

AS OF Dec. 31, 1974 savings deposits at First Federal Savings and Loan Association reached a record high of $19,083,120.71, an increase of 13 per cent over the $16,932,583.38 at the end of 1973.

"The rates we are paying now on our savings accounts and certificates of deposit are the highest on record and the highest allowed by law. We look to 1975 to be a better year in regards to increased savings deposits, however, we feel the demand for mortgage money will blight somewhat due to

Area firemen hold meeting

The "all-departmental meeting" of all Fayette County fire departments was held Wednesday night in the New Holland Fire Department.

Fayette County prosecuting attorney James Kiger spoke to the firemen about the laws pertaining to fire service, which concern such things as traffic responsibility to and from the fire, liability for damages and the prosecution of arsonists.

Raldon Smith, Fayette County disaster services director, and Washington C.H. Fire Chief Maynard L. (Joe) Denen, who is a member of the legislative committee for the Ohio Fire Chiefs Association, presented their reports.

The New Holland Fire Department, which hosted the evening, provided refreshments afterwards.

Traffic Court

Two persons were fined on traffic charges Wednesday during a very light session of Municipal Court.

Charlotte P. Haines, 32, Bloomingburg, was fined $200, sentenced to three days in jail and received a 30-day suspension of her driver's license by acting Judge Omar Schwart after she pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated. Judge Schwart said an additional five-month suspension of her driver's license would be imposed unless the defendant attended Alcoholics Anonymous meetings for a period of six months.

Also fined was Roland Erhardt, 21, West Jefferson. Judge Schwart fined him $150 after he pleaded guilty to operating a vehicle while under license suspension and $25 on a charge of failure to drive on the right half of the roadway. A three-month jail sentence was suspended pending two year's good behavior.

Forfeiting bonds for failure to appear in court Wednesday were Robert H. Melvin, 21, of 713 Harrison St., $35, speeding; and Mary D. Jones, 57, of 914 Pearl St., $25, failure to yield the right of way.

Two join sheriff's department

A Bloomingburg man and a Washington C.H. woman have joined the staff at the Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

The jobs were made available through the Comprehensive Employment Training Act which has allocated Fayette County over $150,000 in an effort to create 33 additional job openings in the county and the city.

Donna Morgan, 913 S. North St., and David Souther, of Bloomingburg, are now filling two out of three openings at the sheriff's department which CETA created.

Mrs. Morgan, who has two daughters, Lisa, 17 and Tina, 15, started her secretarial duties at the department Jan. 6. She originally worked eight years at National Cash Register Co. and went to the Greenfield Plastics Co. after NCR closed operations.

Says Mrs. Morgan, "Although my job is primarily that of a secretary, I feel much more involved with the operations of the sheriff's department and goings on within the county just by listening to the dispatchers on the radio and knowing what's happening here? It's all very interesting."

Souther, who is 27 and the husband of the former Patricia Landrum, was born and raised in Bloomingburg. He graduated from Miami Trace High School in 1965 and then spent two years in the U.S. Army, one of which was in Vietnam as a medical corpsman.

Souther admitted he had had his eye on a job with the sheriff's department for a long time.

"I knew many of the deputies through high school and through activities of mine which paralleled theirs, such as Sertoma Club. I used to work for Sheriff's Deputy Donald Cox's brother, Charlie, in Columbus, selling

Mansfield pact given split vote

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A new city contract offer was accepted by service employees Wednesday and rejected by police officers.

Officers rejected the pact, which included a pay hike of $520 annually

"Business is interesting and I'll always benefit from my knowledge in the area, but I think I've found my niche here at the sheriff's department. It is a job which I find always interesting, always new and providing a secure future, while giving me a chance to serve the community," Souther stated.

The 100 service employees who accepted the agreement, represented by the Teamsters Union, make up one-fifth of the city's 500 workers.

Inexpensive hobby paying delicious dividends

"LOOKIN GOOD DAD!" — Scott Foy lends a helping hand undisturbed for a year after bottling, but according to Scott to his father-in-law, Robert Herron, as they bottle Herron's and Bob "it's worth the wait!"

By MARK THELLMANN
Even if "you gotta nickel and I gotta dime," there ain't no way "let's go uptown and buy some wine," because we aren't gonna get much for 15 cents!

Inflation was introduced to intoxication many months ago (remember when the beer prices effervesced right up your nose?), but for wine drinkers there is salvation!

MANY CONNOISSEURS of the liquid grape are experimenting with making their own, which according to Robert Herron, 617 W. Oakland Ave., who is relatively new to the hobby but very successful, isn't too hard to do.

Herron explained that his start in the fermentation field came when a fellow employee at the Armco Steel Corp. Metal Products Division plant in Washington C.H. (where Herron formerly worked before being transferred to Texas) presented him with a bottle of "homemade."

"I got to talking with my friend and winemaking sounded like an inexpensive hobby paying valuable dividends," Herron said.

Herron's early experiences with wine-making would have turned a more impatient man to stamp collecting, but he kept trying even after his first gallon jug turned to vinegar and his second attempt self-detoned without warning, while Herron was pounding something on the workbench his wine was aging under.

"Everyone has early experiences like that," Herron stated, "but the blackberry wine I made the second year made it all well worth it!" Herron exclaimed, breaking into a mischievous snicker. "I kept all that for myself - didn't tell a soul I had made wine that year. It was delicious!"

Herron fed his yeast bacteria 20 gallons of sugared grape juice this year and explained that Uncle Sam allows a person to make 200 gallons (roughly 1,000 bottles) a year without paying a tax, but you must keep him informed of your basement chemistry by requesting for Internal Revenue Form 1541 entitled "Tax Free Wine for Family Use," at your neighborhood federal income tax office.

After a little arm-twisting, Herron handed over his recipe. His wine was utterly fantastic and his formula couldn't be much simpler! Here goes for five gallons of the stuff:

- purchase two and one-half gallons of grape juice. Herron buys his from the Hartman Farm on U.S. 23, south of Columbus. It's called "Concord" grape juice, but any kind will suffice;

- get two and one-half pounds sugar. Use it all for sweet wine, use two and one-quarter pounds for average and two pounds for a tart tasting wine;

- boil water and add the sugar to it until you get a syrupy solution. If the sugar stops dissolving, it's reached its saturation point and you should add more water;

- add sugar solution to two and one-half gallons grape juice in your five gallon jug which is somewhere between 65 and 70 degrees F. If you have left-over sugar solution (and you probably will because you're only filling the five gallon jug to its shoulders), hang onto it for later;

- add your yeast. Do not use bread yeast - it will leave a "yeasty" taste in your wine and create a lot of creamy sediment. Purchase wine yeast from a store which deals wine-making supplies. It is a good idea to have prepared your yeast 48 hours ahead of time by introducing it to a sugar water solution in a covered glass jar. Keep all temperatures consistent; i.e., 65-70 degrees and keep everything immaculately clean! Wash jug, etc. with soap - not detergent;

- now that the yeast is in the jug of highly sugared grape juice, let everything get acquainted for a week or 10 days. Cover the jug opening with a cloth to keep out dust and the dreaded enemy "the fruitfly" which is covered with yeast-killing bacteria;

- after the 10 days, when everything has quieted down, "minimize," which means add enough of your left-over sugar solution to bring the liquid level in the five gallon jug to a couple inches from the top. Herron states that the less air-space you have, the less trouble you will have;

- now you affix what is known as an "air trap," a "water trap," or a "gas trap." This is anything from a balloon to a hose stuck through a hole in a cork running into a container of water or one of the elaborate wine store mechanisms. All this apparatus does is allow the carbon dioxide gas the yeast are belching to come out of the jug, while at the same time, no air is permitted to enter;

- after 30 days of listening to your jug hiccup, it'll be time to do what is known as "racking," or "pouring off the juice and getting rid of the sediment." This is done by siphoning out the liquid into another five gallon jug and washing out the original jug and discarding the sediment down the drain. It's also a good idea to run the wine through a filter while siphoning. Herron advises a powder or tablet known as "campden" be used in a water mixture to sterilize all equipment. In fact this substance (which is actually sodium metabisulphite, but you probably knew that), is actually added to the wine. It won't hurt it at all. Just follow directions;

- done with the first racking? Then add more sugar solution to replace the lost volume. Herron also says the water trap should be washed out occasionally to prevent dust from getting into the basement to let his wine sit in, undisturbed to ferment, he petitioned Hess' help. According to Hess, "Bob makes some good wine and there's plenty of room in my basement. It's always a pleasure to be his guinea pig when it comes to sampling."

wine and confesses to using his campden solution in place of water in the trap to keep things more sterile yet;

- now, rack every month until you've done this process four or five times. The wine (and it is wine because 90 per cent of the fermentation was complete during the first month), should be clear and there should be very little sediment in the bottom of the jug, and

- finally! Bottling! When you have racked the last time, wait until there seems to be no more activity and then wait 30 more days. Then bottle and no kidding, put them bottles away for a year! Herron says if you use real corks (he uses re-usable plastic ones), lay the bottles on their sides so the corks can absorb moisture and swell.

ALAS! The year is up! You have been doing nothing all year but smiling wistfully at your cellar door, realizing full-well what lies deep down within:

five gallons of your time and patience; five gallons of success or failure; the most expensive blind date you've probably ever had!

You pop that cork. Hands shaking, you pour "the passion drink of the gods" into your best wine glass. You moisten a trembling lip with the ruby-red liquid and behold! Vinegar! No, really, let's hope you succeeded and your homemade wine is a real "knockout" should we say . . .

Occasional snow is expected today in the east and north sections as a weak low pressure trough moves southeastward from the Ohio Valley.

Following this trough, partial clearing and colder temperatures are forecast, with snow flurries off Lake Erie in northeastern Ohio.

A high pressure system, now located over Nebraska, is expected to be moving eastward across the Ohio Valley by Friday. The system is to bring fair weather to the area.

Today's temperatures will remain in the 20s in the north, and range to the 30s in the south. Readings will drop into the teens tonight, and rise Friday afternoon to the 20s or low 30s.

Clouds over Ohio last night kept temperatures ranging from the teens in Youngstown to 29 at Cincinnati's downtown airport.

A chance of snow Saturday and Sunday and cloudy Monday. Highs averaging 30 to 35 north and 35 to 40 south. Lows in the upper teens and the 20s.

PTO to support school projects

JEFFERSONVILLE — The Jeffersonville Parent-Teacher Committee resolved to provide financial assistance for various programs connected with the school.

During its January meeting, the PTC voted to accept financial responsibility for the purchase of jerseys and trunks for some of the participants in the biddy basketball program. The group will also sponsor an English learning series for sixth graders, material to make curtains for a second grade classroom, and for music books to be used by seventh and eighth graders involved in an after-school music class.

Principal Gordon McCarty explained that the current fuel situation has forced the school to reduce the temperatures in the classrooms. He asked parents to dress their children accordingly.

A talent program for grades one through four was held after the meeting. Each child who participated was awarded $1.

The first grade class taught by Mrs. Estep won the tiger for having the greatest number of parents present.

Tool set stolen from truck firm

A breaking and entering and an incident of malicious destruction of property were reported by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, while Washington C.H. police officers reported a dog bite today.

A tool box and tools valued at $75, was stolen from Ollie Stoops, of New Vienna, sometime between 10:30 a.m. Sunday and Wednesday afternoon.

Fayette County Sheriff's deputies explained the tool box had been in an auto parked at McMullins Trucking Co., Ohio 41-S, where Stoops is employed.

The wiring, the air cleaner and the oil dip stick were taken from a car owned by Robert D. Smith, while the auto was parked at the rear of his 4904 U.S. 62-SW residence, Tuesday night.

Sheriff's deputies are investigating the incident.

Mathew Ward, 5, of 549 Damon Dr., received a deep laceration of the scalp when he was bitten by a dog at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, at 503 S. Fayette St. Police reported the boy had been treated by a physician and the dog confined.

Two theft defendants sentenced by judge

A Washington C.H. couple has entered pleas of guilty to a number of theft-related charges filed by Washington C.H. police officers.

Dannie M. Hoagland, 34, of Bloomingburg, and his wife Audrey, 31, had been arrested by city police Oct. 18 in connection with the theft of household items from a Paint Street residence. They were charged with felony counts and were scheduled for trial Wednesday.

However, before going to court, Mr. Hoagland pleaded guilty to the charges of burglary and receiving stolen property while his wife pleaded guilty to a charge of receiving stolen property.

Fayette County Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman sentenced Hoagland to terms of six months to five years on each count and ordered that the sentences be run concurrently. Mrs. Hoagland was placed on probation for three years after the same six month to five year term was suspended.

The Hoaglands were represented by attorney Robert L. Simpson, who had been appointed by the court. County prosecutors James A. Kiger and John H. Roszmann handled the case for the state.

Items taken from the Paint Street home included dishes, silverware, clothing and a number of clocks. The first information concerning the case came from a local resident who had read about the theft in the newspaper and had then purchased a clock which she thought might have been one of those taken.

Much of the missing property was later found when police responded to a prowler report at a nearby residence. The items were found in a tool shed.

Further investigation by city police and sheriff's deputies finally implicated the Hoaglands and Lawrence Snyder, 39, of New Holland, who pleaded guilty and was sentenced earlier this month.

Sheriff's yearly, monthly reports similar

The month of December, 1974 showed a reduction in traffic accidents, injuries, bad checks, burglaries and larcenies, as compared with figures from December, 1973. Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson reported in his monthly statement.

Fourteen injuries stemmed from 57 accidents investigated during the month. Last December there were 21 injuries out of 74 accidents.

Five bad checks were passed in

Kroger convicted of kidnap

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Clifford J. Kroger, described by his friends as a good family man with six children, has been found guilty of kidnaping 4-year-old Allison Mechem from her suburban Cincinnati home Sept. 23.

The seven-woman, five-men Hamilton County Common Pleas Court jury reduced the degree of the crime, claiming the girl had been released unharmed and in a safe place.

The decision will reduce the sentence to a 2-1/2 year term instead of a possible 7-1/2 years.

Despite Kroger's insistence that he was innocent, Judge William S. Mathews said the overwhelming burden of testimony proved otherwise. He expressed his own puzzlement over why Kroger would abduct the young girl.

"It's beyond my comprehension to understand this whole situation," Mathews said in ordering a psychiatric examination before sentencing. "I am unable to understand how anyone could remove a 4-year-old child from the guardianship of her parents."

The jury deliberated nearly nine hours before announcing its verdict.

Mathews earlier in the trial had denied a motion by defense attorney Bernard Gilday that the charge be reduced from kidnaping in the first

Coal conversion plan pondered

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A feasibility study to determine whether placing coal conversion facilities next to steel plants as a substitute for use of natural gas was granted by the Ohio Development Center this week.

The center was formed by the legislature last summer to spend $1 million to stimulate Ohio business and employment opportunities.

"The steel industry is Ohio's largest user of natural gas for industry," the center wrote in an analysis.

"Its conversion to coal-produced gas would save many thousands of jobs and free more natural gas for use by other industries as well as homes," it said.

Some $100,000 will go toward an engineering study of the technical and economic impact of the use of coal-conversion synthetic gas in Ohio's steel industry.

December, 1974 and six were passed last December. There were six burglaries committed in December, 1974 and seven committed a year ago.

A greater difference existed in larcenies; 25 in December 1974 and 31 in December, 1973.

There were five incidents of property destruction for December of both years, three fires in December of 1974 and seven in December of 1973.

Sheriff Thompson stated there were four felony arrests and a total of 459 hours worked by auxiliary deputies during the month.

The yearly report summarized by Sheriff Thompson was very much like December's monthly report; traffic accidents were down and so were injuries sustained from them, as compared to 1973's yearly report.

There were 679 accidents in 1974 and 809 in 1973; 179 injuries in 1974, and 260 in 1973. Ten people died in traffic accidents in Fayette County in 1974 and there were only two traffic fatalities in 1973.

Accidental shootings were also lower in 1974, nine, as compared to 12 in 1973.

However, crime did rise noticeably in 1974 as compared with 1973. Forty-eight bad checks were passed in 1974 as compared with 25 passed in 1973; 17 autos were stolen and 31 recovered in 1974, while seven were stolen in 1973 and 19 recovered.

Twelve persons were assaulted in 1974 and seven in 1973; 99 burglaries occurred in the county in 1974 and 63 in 1973; and 313 larcenies occurred in 1974, while 271 occurred in 1973.

Destruction of property totaled 106 incidents in 1974 and 87 in 1973.

Sheriff Thompson reported 78 felony arrests for the year and a total of 4,908 hours worked during 1974 by auxiliary deputies.

Wilmington improved for Panther rematch

BY SANDY FOSSON

Record-Herald Staff writer

In looking ahead to Friday night's encounter with the Wilmington Hurricanes, Coach Dale Creamer said he is hoping the momentum his Miami Trace Panthers have shown during their last three games will continue to increase steadily during the remainder of the season.

Although Wilmington sports an 0-8 overall record in the South Central Ohio League and Miami Trace handed them a crushing 81-47 defeat early in the season, Coach Creamer said he expects to see a completely different ballgame on the Wilmington court Friday.

The Miami Trace Panthers will be concentrating primarily on the Hurricanes' 6'1" forward Gary Williams, who was moved from the Wilmington freshman squad to the varsity team. Williams scored 16 points for the Hurricanes during their recent clash with the Greenfield Tigers.

"He's strong, rugged and gives them added board strength they didn't have before," Coach Creamer said.

He noted, too, that although the Wilmington team was also a young team, they had played a very tough schedule including Springfield South and he expected to see a much more matured ball club than the team the Panthers so easily defeated earlier.

"I have great respect for Wilmington Coach Larry Bartram," Coach Creamer said. "And I have no doubts his kids are improving with playing the stronger ball teams."

Other players expected to start Friday for the Hurricanes will be Dale Achtermann (who scored 16 points against the Panthers in their last bout) as their pivot man, Tony Berlin and Tim Starkey in the guard positions and either Duane Earley or Steve Hart to play forward opposite Williams.

Coach Creamer said although the Wilmington team is currently holding a rather sour record, the Hurricanes will have the definite court advantage being a home game. And he noted, "When a team hasn't had much success, you never know, maybe Friday night is going to be the night they'll really put on the pressure."

Coach Creamer said his team has been playing each game one at a time without looking too far ahead in their schedule. "We've been in no position to look ahead with our standings in the league (tied for third in SCOL with Unioto, Hillsboro, and Washington C.H.). We have pretty much accepted the fact that we're not in the running for the league title but we're going to play with pride and the idea we can be a spoiler," he said.

The Panthers proved their "spoiler" image Tuesday with the 71-68 upset of league contender Greenfield. Defensive player of the week honors went to senior Randy Rhonemus for his 13 rebounds and 16 points in the win.

"During the last three games I've noticed marked improvement with each game; I'm only hopeful our ability will peak for tournament play," Coach Creamer said.

RANDY RHONEMUS

The strong defeat of previously unbeaten London 66-58 appeared to have been the turning point in the Panthers' season, Creamer said, which gave the players additional confidence in their ability.

However, Creamer said the Panthers would have to increase their preparedness for any type defense, whether it be man-to-man or varieties of zone defenses. "The full court pressure really hurt us in Tuesday's game with Greenfield," he said.

In Friday's game against Wilmington, Coach Creamer said he plans to maintain his same starting five players and gear up preparations to handle any defense being utilized by the Hurricanes. Creamer will start regulars Art Schlichter and Phil Skinner at guard, Dan Gifford and Alan Conner as forwards and Randy Rhonemus at center with continual substituting by Gary English, Gregg Cobb and John Schlichter. Also backing up the Panther force will be Rod Garringer, Mark Spears and Robin Zurfase for extra strength.

Chris Evert named top female athlete

NEW YORK (AP) — Billie Jean King long has contended that popularity, not ability, determines who is named Associated Press Female Athlete of the Year, but she couldn't argue that the 1974 winner, Chris Evert, had not earned it.

Miss Evert polished off her last year as a teen-ager by winning 15 of 22 tournaments she entered, including Wimbledon and the French Open, and earned a record $250,000-plus in official money.

Byrd named player of week

Blue Lions take break from SCOL play

BY MARK REA

Record-Herald Sports Writer

Washington C.H. head basketball coach Gary Shaffer plans no surprises and, in return, expects none when the Jackson Ironmen invade the WSHS gym for the first time ever next Saturday night. The game serves as a breather for the Lions from South Central Ohio League action.

Coach Shaffer could not elaborate on exactly what he expects from Jackson but did say, "they play a scrappy defense and a passing offense. They also employ the fast break often and have a good record this year. They have some good young players from last year's unbeaten reserve team."

Looking back to the game with first place Circleville, Shaffer stated, "The rebounding really hurt us. Chuck Byrd and John Denen played good games on the boards but we failed to get any of our other big men up for the rebound."

Shaffer also commented that the loss could be attributed to "overhurrying and not playing enough ball control when we had a chance to tie in the first half. We also had too many turnovers at that time."

The Lion mentor also added that he was disappointed that Circleville had but 11 personal foul called against them. He pointed out that since the Tigers were employing a man-to-man defense, there naturally should have been more fouls called against them.

Shaffer lauded the play of Byrd Tuesday night, labeling his performance as "the best all-around game I've seen this year." Byrd had a tremendous night, scoring 28 points, picking off nine rebounds, having four assists. The 5-foot-11 guard also blocked a shot by a 6-foot-3 center.

Two players were absent from the Lions' practice Wednesday night. Denen, who missed school that day, was at home with the flu. Giant 6-foot-4 Mark Barker has not attended school for the past week and is sidelined with mononucleosis. Denen is expected to be ready to play Saturday night but Barker's illness is still indefinite.

With the loss to the league leading

Tigers, the Blue Lions' 1974-75 SCOL record drops to 3-4 which puts them into a four-way tie along with Unioto, Hillsboro, and Miami Trace. Nestled into second place between the pacesetters and the logjam is Greenfield with a 5-2 league mark.

Following the non-league bout with Jackson this Saturday, the Lions remain home and host another team outside of the SCOL in the person of Chillicothe Cavaliers on Tuesday night. The following Friday night, Court House heads back into league action as they travel to Unioto to meet the Shermans on their home territory. Earlier this season, the Lions whipped the Tanks at WSHS by the score of 69-66.

The two teams boast the two top scorers in the SCOL. The Sherman's 6-foot-7 center Greg Alcorn leads the league with 138 points in seven league encounters for 19.7 average. Washington's junior star Byrd has collected 137 points in seven contests for a 19.6 average.

The Shermans also boast Jeff Throckmorton who carries a 15.6 average. Also, Unioto has retained the services of senior co-captain Steve Frey after being suspended for two games.

Since the loss to Circleville put the Lions four games out of first place, coach Shaffer sees no possibility of his team successfully defending the SCOL basketball crown. He stated, "We're looking ahead to the sectional playoffs at Unioto. We have a young team and should be strong heading into the playoffs. Nine of our eleven team members will be back next year and we should be right at the top."

Ohio U edges Miami

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio edged Miami 92-90 in double overtime with a last-second desperation scoring effort.

In Athens, Ohio, Scott Love and Dave Terek combined in the second overtime of the OU-Miami contest to claim the victory.

The score was tied at 75-75 at the end of regulation play and at 82-82 at the end of the first overtime.

As the end of the second overtime drew near, the score was at 90-90. Miami had possession and went into a stall near their basket.

With 10 seconds left, the Redskins moved toward the winning goal, when Love stole the ball and threw a court-length pass to Terek under the Ohio basket. Terek made the layup to take the victory with four seconds left.

AP picks Ali as top athlete

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali evened two scores last year — beating Joe Frazier and regaining the heavyweight championship he had lost out of the ring. For his successes, he was named The Associated Press Male Athlete of 1974.

Ali, who regained the title by knocking out George Foreman in Africa, received 162 votes in a nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters. Hank Aaron, who broke Babe Ruth's career home run record by hitting No. 715 in April, finished second with 110 points and Lou Brock, who set a major league base-stealing record of 118, was third with 67.

Tennis star Chris Evert was named Female Athlete of the Year for 1974 Wednesday.

"Do they pick the best athlete or the most famous," asked Ali when informed of winning the 44th annual poll. "The best," he was told.

Ali smiled. The 32-year-old champion had a lot to smile about in 1974.

"It was my greatest year," said Ali who opened it by beating Joe Frazier on a unanimous 12-round decision Jan. 28 at Madison Square Garden to avenge a 15-round decision loss to Frazier, then champion, March 8, 1971.

But it was Oct. 30 in the early morning hours in the Equatorial African nation of Zaire that Ali reached another peak in a career marked by the dramatic and unexpected — his title-winning upset of Sonny Liston in 1964; the conviction for refusing induction into the military and his being stripped of the title in 1967; his dramatic return to the ring in 1970 against Jerry Quarry; the first Frazier fight in 1971 and the U.S. Supreme Court reversal of the draft-evasion conviction that same year; and his broken-jaw loss to Ken Norton in 1973, which many boxing ob-

goes to Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Aging slugger Harmon Killebrew has bid farewell to the Minnesota Twins and hopes to gain a new lease on his baseball life with the Kansas City Royals.

Joe Burke, general manager of the Royals, announced Wednesday the club has reached an agreement with the famed 38-year-old home run specialist and that Killebrew "can sign a contract with us as soon as he is released by the Twins."

Killebrew came to terms with the Royals after day-long reports he was headed for the Texas Rangers. Burke did not disclose terms of the one-year agreement but the Rangers said they would not meet Killebrew's reported request for $80,000 a year.

'Dear Teacher-Dear Class'

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of weekly features designed to bring the city's elementary teachers closer to the public.

BY LEWIS PARRETT

Elementary Coordinator
This week's featured teacher is Charles Melton and his fifth grade class at Rose Avenue Elementary School where Melton doubles as principal and teacher.

Melton was born in Jackson, Ky., and was raised in eastern Kentucky and Fayette County. He graduated from Wayne High School in Good Hope and enrolled at Morehead (Ky.) State University where he received his bachelor of arts degree while preparing for a teaching career. Twelve years ago, Melton began teaching at Rose Avenue Elementary School and has continued there ever since. In 1973 he was promoted to school principal, a position he holds along with his teaching duties.

He and his wife, Linda, reside at 6941 Eyman Road, with their children, 13-year-old Belinda and eight-month-old Bret. Among things he really enjoys are grilled food; red, white and blue colors, and summer sunshine.

WHEN NOT busy with school activities, Melton enjoys farming, an-

Tobacco declines

RIPLEY, Ohio (AP) — A $7 per hundredweight drop in burley tobacco prices sent the average to a season-low of $98.25 Wednesday.

The host and hostess for the coming week will be Ken Kellis and Denise Coder. Melton and his class extend an invitation for parents to visit them during the coming week. The best times for a visit would be from 9 until 11:15 a.m. and from 1 until 3:15 p.m.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The chairman of the Black Elected Democrats has accused Gov. James A. Rhodes' administration of racism over the firing of a state coordinator of the equal employment opportunity program.

State Rep. C. J. McLin, D-36 Dayton, said the employee, E.W. McCroon, was dismissed Tuesday for allegedly filing with the secretary of state an official document that had not been fully reviewed, accepted or approved.

The document, "Implementing Rules and Regulations of the Department of Public Works Regulation on Equal Employment Opportunity," was filed with "all the requirements of procedure having been followed as prescribed by law," according to McLin.

John N. McElroy, chief aide to Gov. James A. Rhodes, confirmed the dismissal. But he said McCroon had acted as an "individual" by filing the document without approval Monday morning in a "twilight zone" when the new administration was just taking office. Rhodes and his cabinet were sworn in Monday.

McElroy said Joseph Sommer, former Gov. Gilligan's director of administrative services, also had refused to permit McCroon to file the regulations.

Sommer confirmed Wednesday what the regulations had been "held over for the next administration" after objections by representatives of the building trades and construction contractors.

Sommer said McCroon felt "very strongly" about the affirmative action hiring rules for the construction industry and apparently acted on his "own initiative."

McCroon was state construction equal employment opportunity coordinator under the administrative services department now headed by R.L. Krabach.

"We recognize the realities of politics, but for Mr. McCroon to be fired for fulfilling the responsibilities of his office denotes racism in its rawest form," McLin said Wednesday.

"We shall not take this lightly, and put Gov. Rhodes and his cabinet on public notice that we shall deal with him and his cabinet members in like fashion," he added.

Courts

DIVORCE ACTION DISMISSED

The divorce action filed in Common Pleas Court by Thelma J. Wright, Worthington Road, against James W. Wright, Dayton has been dismissed by the court due to a lack of prosecution.

Opening lead — jack of diamonds.

Basically, bridge is a game of percentages. You do well if you follow the odds; you don't if you don't!

Assume you're in six hearts and West leads a diamond. You win and draw two rounds of trumps, at which point you must decide which of three main lines of play to pursue.

Perhaps the simplest is to lead a club to the king and play a spade to the queen. If the finesse succeeds, you're home. If the finesse fails, you still have a chance because you can cash the ace of clubs and ruff a club, making the slam if the suit is divided 3-3.

Alternatively, after drawing trumps, you could start by cashing the A-K of clubs and ruffing a club to see whether the suit is divided 3-3. If it is not, you can fall back on the spade finesse after entering dummy with a trump.

If you adopt either of these methods of play, you have about a 68 per cent chance for the slam. Not bad, of course, but not as good as the third method of play which consists of playing a low club at trick four and following low from dummy!

Let's say East wins and shifts to the jack of spades. You go up with the ace, cash the A-K of clubs, discarding a spade, and ruff a club to establish the last club in dummy as a trick. You then cross to dummy with a trump and discard the queen of clubs on the eight of clubs.

This line of play succeeds whenever the clubs are divided either 3-3 or 4-2 — an 84 per cent chance. It is therefore clearly the right percentage play.

Sugar beet farmers have good year

FREMONT, Ohio (AP) — The price of sugar is going down as fast as it increased because of consumer resistance and stockpiling, but if initial returns hold, 1974 was a good year for Ohio sugar beet farmers, an official of Northern Ohio Sugar Co. says.

Robert Zilles, agricultural administrator, said about 700 farmers in six northern Ohio counties delivered 397,321 tons of sugar beets to the firm's two plants in Fremont and Findlay. The 1973 yield was 95,000 tons less.

Farmers have received only one of four payments anticipated for the 1974 crop, but the initial amount was nearly double 1973's first payment. This year's first cash return to farmers was $30 a ton, compared to $16 a ton a year ago.

Northern had farmers in Sandusky, Ottawa, Erie, Seneca, Wood and Lucas counties under contract last year for 26,000 acres of sugar beets, about two thousand acres more than the previous year.

Zilles said although the 1973 crop brought a total of $34.13 a ton, it is impossible to predict total payments for 1974 because of fluctuating sugar prices. Northern Ohio Sugar is a subsidiary of the Great Western Sugar Co. of Denver, Colo.

Another 300 farmers in Putnam, Henry, Defiance, Hancock, Allen and Van Wert counties grow sugar beets for Buckeye Sugars, Inc., headquartered in Ottawa.

President John Stacey also believes 1974 was a good year for yield and prices.

Farmers brought in 146,401 tons of sugar beets in 1974, compared to 100,495 tons in 1973.

The first payment for 1974 by Buckeye was $25 a ton, higher than last year's total payment of $23.81 per ton and compares with a first installment of $14.25 per ton, Stacey said.

Buckeye Sugar had farmers under contract for 9,000 acres in 1974, two thousand acres more than in 1973.

Transmission line proposal rejected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An electric transmission line proposed by Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. from Lake County to Cleveland by way of Macedonia was rejected Tuesday by the Ohio Power Siting Commission.

CEI's application for the 345-kilovolt line connecting the Perry nuclear power plant to its inland substation in Cleveland was ruled incomplete, the commission secretary said.

When the firm has completed areas dealing with 10-year forecasts, land use and future and existing highway projects, the commission will review the proposal again.

Two drivers cited in area mishaps

A Washington C.H. man claimed injury from an accident late Wednesday afternoon, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported, along with an additional accident. City police also investigated an accident, in which an area woman was cited for a traffic violation.

A car driven by John A. Ernst, 18, of 314 E. Paint St., failed to negotiate a right curve on Robinson Road, near the Chillicothe Road intersection and traveled off the left side, into the ditch.

The mishap, which occurred at 5:05 p.m. Wednesday, resulted in moderate damage to Ernst's auto. He claimed injury at the scene, but was not treated according to hospital officials at Fayette Memorial.

Ernst was charged with reckless operation by sheriff's deputies.

corner of a parked car belonging to Joe Elliott, Bloomingburg, when she became distracted by her child and took her eyes off the road.

The mishap occurred in Bloomingburg on Main Street at 12:45 p.m. Wednesday sheriff's deputies reported.

Damage was moderate to both autos.

Pearl Bailey joins Presidential race

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Entertainer Pearl Bailey says she's serious about running for President in 1976, and that while she believes in foreign aid, "there are a lot of people hungry at home" to take care of first.

Miss Bailey, 56, currently at Beverly Hills Country Club in Southgate, Ky., said she believes President Ford is honest "so I want to run beside him, not against him," although as an independent.

Appointed "ambassador of love," by former President Richard Nixon, she said she discovered people in other countries are more interested in getting to know Americans and having Americans know about them. "There's been enough negotiation," she said.

She said she has "always been serious and spiritual" and is hoping to help America rediscover itself. "I think we didn't do all the things we intended when we crossed frontiers."

She said America's problem is that the people stopped believing in God.

"Let us return to God, honey, everybody has God in every country. God represents truth to me. We're lying to ourselves now, that all these problems will go away without any effort."
